From the minister...

Reverend Edith A. Love

Beloveds,

I am sharing a little of what was in the intro to my first sermon. To begin, a little about me, I was born in Memphis, Tennessee, a city I know to be strong. It has grit and it has heart. It is my understanding that many of this congregation hail from New York, which has its own tough reputation. And I've heard it said that Florida is a difficult place to be a minister. I could not more strongly disagree! I am absolutely thrilled, honored and blessed to be here with you as your newly hired minister.

I hold a bachelor of liberal arts in social justice and a master's degree in divinity. I passed the MFC in 2017, and was ordained in 2019. My pronouns are she and her.

I have experience as an activist, working with unhoused people, counseling other LGBTQ+ folks, and assisting with grief work. I owned and ran a pedicab business for several years while I was in seminary. You are the third congregation I have served as pastor.

I have a radiantly beautiful, energetic, very wise nine year old daughter that I share custody of in Tennessee. I will be bringing her down with me at times, and you will all have a chance to meet her.

I also live in Florida half of the time so that I can be your pastor, both in person, and remotely.

Because I am physically here roughly week on/week off, my schedule with you is much heavier when I am in person, and lighter when I am back in Tennessee, so I can parent my daughter and tend to my other small flock, the Unitarian Universalist Congregation of Tupelo, Mississippi, who currently have me under contract at quarter time. What that translates to is that I will usually but not always, fly out on Thursday mornings, be on duty Thursday afternoon, and Sunday through Wednesday of the following week. Fridays are my writing day, and Saturday is my Sabbath day. If I have pastoral obligations on one of those days, I will take corresponding time off in the upcoming week. Days, I will be available for pastoral care and meetings, however I am reserving weeknights in Tennessee to spend time with my little girl. So if a meeting falls during a time that my little girl needs me, she takes priority and I hope you understand that. These are the practical parts.

So far, I have met with many of you and heard your stories, I'm excited for further conversation. If we have not yet connected, please do call or email me, my email is minister@uufbr.org, and my cell is 901-598-3343.

There is so much for us to explore together, I can't wait!

Edith

It's a time of reflection with an eye to discerning the best strategies for the year ahead. It's a time that calls for thinking from the quiet of deep within, while also carrying on business at what is arguably the busiest time of year. Thus I have found myself in reflection more often recently, as the year we are concluding has been filled to bursting with events of all varieties, from musical to aesthetic to special services, all offering a dimension of spirituality, ranging from light and even capricious to deeply profound and moving. Thinking back on everything from staff service to worship service to member service, I found myself moving from reflection to amazement to enormous gratitude.

Our Administrative Assistant, Ruth Amisial, is an employer's dream. She is very skilled at all she does, willing to take on new tasks, extremely efficient, and a consummate professional in every way. She exemplifies our UU values by treating everyone, from congregant to person off the street, so to speak, with kindness, courtesy, and respect. From my observation and experience with her, Ruth is deserving of every superlative applicable.

Our Director of Music, Marina Machado, is just much a treasure. Professionally adept in both choral and instrumental settings. She is excited and exciting: energetic, skilled, and well connected in the musical arts world. In addition to her work providing for our musical nourishment most Sundays, Marina has planned, produced, and performed in her first live concert with us. Offered in our own sanctuary, transformed and resplendent with hundreds of candles, the concert was very well received and attended. Another, a piano trio consisting of violin, clarinet, and piano, is planned for the end of this month. We are so fortunate to have both Marina and Ruth.

Adding to our blessings, against all odds and predictions of dire realities, we are off to a very promising start with an amazing new minister, the Reverend Edith Love. Thanks to hard work on the part of a dedicated search team, and with assistance from our co-president Rajeev, combined with our own willingness to explore new paths and consider new ways that break tradition with the past we now have a three-quarter time minister who is with us physically half the time and working remotely the other quarter from her home in Memphis, Tennessee. She, too, is excited to be here and embarking on this new venture in ministry with us.

All in all, I marvel at our good fortune to have attracted such talent in all dimensions, and I am filled with gratitude. It could be so different, but here we are, in the warm Florida sun, basking in good fortune. Let us continue to strive to keep love at the center of all we do . . . it seems to be working!

In good faith,

Claire Smith,

Co-president of the UUFBF Board of Trustees

EMA was founded in 1975 and is today the only abortion fund in Palm Beach County that assists people financially with pregnancy termination. EMA feels very strongly that every person should have access to safe, legal abortion care and that this access should not depend on someone's zip code or bank account. EMA is primarily dependent upon donations from individuals such as you to accomplish our mission.

The Music of Balance: Celebrating the Spring Equinox

As March arrives, we can feel a big change in nature: the Spring Equinox. This is when day and night are equal in length, perfectly balanced before the days grow longer. Many cultures celebrate this time as a season of new beginnings and harmony. As Unitarian Universalists, this moment can be embraced to find balance in ourselves and our community. And music is a wonderful way to celebrate!

Music helps us mark important times and changes in our lives. Just as the Spring Equinox balances light and dark, music can hold different feelings and turn them into something beautiful. The morning songs of birds or the sound of our voices joined in a hymn can carry us into spring's warmth. Music also helps us find balance. Some songs calm us down, while others give us energy. Like the Equinox balances light and dark, good music balances tension and release.

In many earth-centered traditions, which influence UU spirituality, the Equinox is when we plant new seeds, both physically in gardens, and metaphorically in our lives. What new beginnings do you want to plant this Spring? And how can music help us nurture them? Songs about renewal, hope, and awakening can remind us that we are constantly growing, stretching toward the light. We can also take this opportunity to step outside and listen -really listen- to the music of nature itself: the wind in the trees, our footsteps, birds calling, reminding us we're part of something bigger.

There are many musical traditions associated with Spring, from folk songs celebrating nature's rebirth to classical compositions inspired by the season. Debussy's "Printemps" (Spring) is a symphonic suite that paints a gentle musical picture of nature awakening with shimmering sounds and flowing melodies. If we take a look at our own hymnal, when we sing Hymn #1073 "The Earth Is Our Mother", we honor our connection to the land and recognize that we are part of nature's cycles. And Hymn #303 "We Are the Earth Upright and Proud" reminds us that we ourselves embody the natural world, standing tall like trees while remaining rooted in the earth's wisdom.

As we welcome Spring, let's use music to honor this special time. Let's sing songs of renewal, play music that brings balance, and listen to the rhythms of the earth. May we find harmony in the changing seasons, in our hearts, and in our community.

Marina Machado
Music Director

Quimetta Perle's work powerfully addresses women's rights and safety through the use of patterned silks, cottons, and seed beads adhered to rag paper. Her series, "Protectors of the Women," features guardians of different races and ages, standing as one body with domestic tools as their weapons, symbolizing resistance against the erosion of women's rights.
